

Who keeps your meat safe?

How important is it to make sure the meat you eat is safe and hygienic?

How important is it to make sure the meat you eat is safe and hygienic?

- Wales needs more directly employed meat hygiene inspectors and official vets.
- It's important the meat you eat is safe.
- Eating unhygienic meat is extremely risky to your health.
- Meat hygiene inspectors and official vets protect the consumer every day but their numbers are under pressure because of budget cuts.
- UNISON wants the Food Standards Agency (FSA) to recruit many more directly employed meat hygiene inspectors and official vets, and not outsource your food safety to private companies.
- More FSA employed inspectors and official vets will reduce the chances of the public coming into contact with contaminated meat.
- If you agree, send a message to your MP and let them know what you think.
